Do not give up control of anything internet related. This is a travesty. The USA has developed the internet and thus we should have complete control over it. So now your plan is to turn it over to the control of other countries? So it would be sort of like the UN? Real success that group has been.

That was sarcasm incase you couldn't tell.

This is total lunacy. Although, most of what or government has been doing lately would be considered that as well.
